International Mediation Survey

Introductory Questions - Basic background of mediation

2

How is mediation defined in your country? (Check one)

- Two parties decide to make an agreement with each other directly.
- A third party hears a case between disputants and makes a decision for them.
- A third party (like a judge) attempts to facilitate a resolution between the disputants. If the disputants are unsuccessful, the same third party makes a decision for them.
- A neutral third party facilitates an agreement, the details of which are generated solely by the disputing parties. The third party facilitates the process but does not impose the solution.
- Other
